“ I got to spend a lot of time with Abby. She had many qualities I will miss. Abby often wrote me songs, or drew me pictures. She loved choir and all her friends she made there. I always enjoyed helping her get all pretty for her performances. She was always so excited to be in the choir concerts. When the holidays came around, Abby always wanted me to help her bake something to share at her family gatherings. Abby longed to be free of seizures and the medications required to control them. She wanted to have a full, rich, social life. Friends were so important to her. Well Abby, you are now free of all that held you back. Go sing like an angel and enjoy your freedom in Heaven. I miss you Abby, and will treasure the things you have given me.
