“ Oh Barb, what have you done now? What ever happened to our power- wheelchair races we were supposed to have? You always promised that if you "ever get too old to go, I'll put rockets on my damn wheelchair!" I got mine, but you just cut out too soon, in oh, so many ways. I love you so very, very much ~ but you know that, always have. You've been my friend, my sister, my confessor, my advisor, my confident, and I realize now, even my mother in many ways. We've laughed ourselves silly, thought up way more ways to get into trouble than anyone has a right to, & above all..always been there for each other. I still don't understand why Abba-Daddy kept me down here in California when I so I so longed to be with you. I even made it as far as the Oregon/California border last summer, but, no....back home I had to go. What was with THAT? But, as always, He knows best, & I'll not only see you in Glory, I'll continue to carry you in my heart every day that I'm still here....& yes, the phone call service where you are leaves a great deal to be desired...GET IT FIXED!!! I love you, Babe
