“ Thank you to those posting this. I met Betty through a brother and sometimes had lunch with them in years past. In her later years, when both near deafness and blindness set in, he spoke with her almost daily and I weekly from the Spokane area and then recently from the Castle Rock area. Betty managed to remain positive about being alive despite the narrowing of her ability to operate fully in the world. We had some great conversations about her earlier life and mine, and about food, pets, medical people, religion, and whatever was currently happening with either of us. She also shared her thoughts of appreciation for caregivers and for the many who visited her, especially around holidays. I am glad to have known "Aunt betty" and to have had her as a later addition to my now 70 year life, My condolences to her extended family and close friends; Claudia King
