“ I knew Daniel through my father, Larry. We were lucky that Dan was able to attend my dad's birthday party in March, which was held in the party room of my dad's retirement community. It was a convivial bunch. Dan sat in a nice leather chair, and, livewire that he was, struck up a friendship with another of my dad's friends. Five hours after the party had started, the staff needed to clean up the room and we were escorted to the library downstairs, where we took pictures with Dan, Jerry, Diane, Amber, and my dad. I loved Dan's SUV with the American flag flying jauntily at the side.
