“ My Sister, Esther passed away today. There is no description for the sadness in your heart when you lose a loved one. With as many sisters and brothers as I was fortunate enough to have...and then, over the years losing as many as I have...I will never get used to the ache in my heart when each special person in my life leaves. But I am still blessed with the ones that are left, and so many other wonderful family members! I guess we will all miss dear Esther together.
