“ Hi Mom, I don't know why people say that she was 88 and a half and she had a good life. Like it's not so bad. Well, it is bad. I felt closer to you those last few years than ever before. It was a pleasure and a priviledge to help you and care for you.. I miss those rides when we would try to get lost and end up right along side the freeway. I miss your voice and shopping with you at Walmart. No one could hang out longer at Walmart than us just looking....LOL. I know your keeping watch over Taylor, maybe Carter will decide to make his appearance today in your honor. Missing you as much today as I did 6 years ago. Love you Geri

“ Hi Mom, 5 years and still missing you as much. I know you and Dad have been watching over all of us and you both are probably just shaking your heads wondering if we all will ever figure it out. I have faith that we will because we had you and Dad to instill the most important things in life..... respect, responsibility and most importantly, love of family. Love you so, Geri

“ Mom, I still miss you every day. Sometimes I feel that my tears will never stop. I have a lot of things that I still need to tell you and lot of apologies I want you to hear. My heart simply hurts. Love you so very much, Geri
