“ When a loved one leaves us, we want to pull them back into our daily lives. We feel such a great loss with their leaving. Time doesn't heal the loss but the good times with them help us to appreciate the time we did have with them. Judy and I laughed a lot in our times together, even cried together a few times. She is now an angel watching over her family from above. Our condolences to the family. Don't have regrets about what you didn't say or do, your love for her shone to everyone, especially her. hugs to all of you.
