“ I am deeply saddened by the news that Lily had passed away. We were friends in Cincinnati when I attended graduate school. By the time I was about to graduate, many friends had already had small children, including Lily. She made stuffed animals for these kids, and she also made one for me even if I did not have any kid. Many decades have passed, that pink little dog still stays with me today - it reminded me how talented she was as a person and how kind she was as a friend. Her cheerfulness, her positive attitude towards life, and her warm smiles will always remain in my memory. Lily, may you rest in peace.

“ Lily, you fought a good fight, may you rest in peace in heaven. I miss our happy days in Cincinnati; our paths did not cross as often as we wished to, but when they did, they always resulted in fond memories, which will be forever treasured, and kept in my heart. Your love for your families, friends, and for life will last and be remembered till the end of the world. Adieu, mon amie!

“ The afternoon you came to visit me, we tried to go back to our kindergarten and elementary years. After all it has been over 40 years and the memories are not 100%. We laughed at the common memories and argued our differences. It was not a warm day in Taipei, but the friendship warmed me all over. I am not saying goodbye to the 55 years of friendship, instead it will always be with me. Oh, I miss you already.

“ Dear Brian, Since our family moved in next door to your family, my daughter and I have only met Lily two times -- the first time was at a welcoming coffee held at Cara Wood's home in January of 2012. Lily was well then and I remember her as a very friendly person with a wonderful sense of humor. She was fun to talk to and made me feel welcome to the neighborhood. I wish we knew her longer. We are so saddened by your family's great loss of a beloved wife, mother, grandmother and sister. You are all in our prayers. With sympathy, Siobhan, Chad and Lily

“ I was totally shocked and speechless for a while when we heard that Lily had left us. It was just last month when I visited Lily's and Brian's house in Vancouver. We were chatting and browsing through the photos of their cute grandson and the wedding ceremony of their beloved daughter. I felt Lily was a little bit weak, but was doing fine. Never would I expect this is my last chance to see her. I still remember the times when Brian would invite graduate students to his house during Thanksgiving. Lily always greeted us with her cheerful smile and prepared many delicious dishes to ease our stomach and home-sick hearts. After moving back to Taiwan, we have always found time to meet together every year in Taipei, Taoyuan, Hsinchu, Chushan... It was one of the most memorable days of our life. Although it may be difficult for you to move on after she has gone, may her cheerful smile and happy memory help conform you in the future.

“ Lily was a lovely person and dear friend. She and I met while working together in Dallas, and reconnected when she moved to the Portland area. We would get together for lunch and tea, and I even shared Thanksgiving one year with her and her family. I will miss her smile, laugh, and insight very much. My deepest sympathies to Brian and the rest of her family, both in the US and Taiwan.

“ Lily was the best friend in the whole wild world, especially when we both were stuck on the Computer Lab back in UTA! She always had hand full of fresh fruit/veggie that she grew from her garden and shared with me during those frustration moment, and fresh points of view to enlighten the pressure! She was a dear and sincere friend. We even car-pooled for a period of time to Dallas for work! Those were fun days that we always had end-less conversatons about anything in life! I remembered last time she visited me @ Boston, we celebrated her 50th birthday with cake, flower, wine, and Bostonion hospitality. We all said, it was too much fun, and we should do it at least every dacade!!! Words fall short of expressing my sorrow. I can't imagine the sadness you must be feeling from your loss! May the peace that comes from the memories of love shared, will comfort you all now and in the days ahead.
