

Mabel Agnes Parvi

November 20, 1924 - August 29, 2013

MABEL "MINNIE" PARVI November 20, 1924 ~ August 29, 2013 Mabel Parvi, 88, born Mabel Agnes Jonas on November 20, 1924 in Vancouver, WA, died Aug 29, 2013. Mabel was raised in St. Johns in the house her father built, which is now called "The Junk House". She went to Minnehaha School and later graduated from Providence Academy. A jack of all trades, Mabel worked at the cannery, as a waitress, and held several office jobs. In 1946, she married Gene Parvi and in 1953 they welcomed their only child, Lori. Mabel belonged to the Catholic Daughters and was heavily involved in her church and thoroughly enjoyed planning the receptions there and helping at any function. She led their quilting group from her home for many years and was instrumental in the churches first kitchen remodel. Minnie loved to work crossword puzzles, read detective novels and biographies, and play pinochle. She was a wonderful wife, mother, and Grandma. She was preceded in death by her husband, Gene; and daughter, Lori. Mabel is survived by her loving granddaughters, Katelin, Amber, and Shawna; and her four great-granddaughters. Donations may be made in her name to St. John the Evangelist Catholic Church in Vancouver, where services will be held on Friday, Sept. 6 at 11a.m. Burial services will follow at Evergreen Memorial Gardens at 2p.m. (viewing at Evergreen on Thursday, Sept. 5 from 12-9). - See more at: <http://obits.columbian.com/obituaries/columbian/obituary.aspx?n=mabel-parvi-minnie&pid=166718147#fbLoggedOut>
