“ Two Angels met today They have more in common then either knew They spoke softly to each other as they flew As their time past, one Angel said to the other I have work to do, the older Angel muttered, The younger Angel smiled, I Know you do I have been watching over them, waiting for you. Thank you mom and grandma. Written by Christopher Barnes Penn

“ I will always remember you as a strong and courageous woman. You walked with your head up and took what life handed you gracefully. I always enjoyed seeing you at occasions at Kathy's house. I remember the times you and my mother talked and laughed. Now you will see my Mom in Heaven and watch out for us as Angels. We Love You!! ;)

“ Grandma Madge, I figured you would always be around and it saddens me now to realize that is not so. You were the one grandparent I spent the most time with and who lived the longest. I remember so many games or Yahtzee and weekends spent together in your old apartment. I am thankful for the time we were able to spend together in August and so glad that you could meet Robert. I know it made you happy to see me marry such a nice man who is so very handsome too. You will be missed. I'll be sure to visit your grave site when I am in town in March and many times after. With love, your granddaughter, Carrie

“ Grandma...if it weren't for you, I wouldn't have my dad, or the rest of my family, who I have grown to love so much. I really enjoyed the time we had together, even though I wished it had been more frequent. I will forever hold the memories I have, dear to my heart. All the times we were able to visit, and how you made me & dad laugh, until we cried. Like the time you told me "you look good, with all that extra weight on you", just classic! Your letters always meant so much to me as a young child, and the letters to my family, meant so much to your great grand children Tiara & Dominic. Just knowing I had a grandma who loved me, was enough, and my children knowing that you loved them. I am so glad that you had the opportunity to meet Chris, and that you liked him too! We all miss you dearly, but I find peace knowing you are watching over us, all of us! Rest in Peace Grandma! We Love You! Chris, Tracie, Tiara & Dominic
