“ My Aunt Maud was a nice part of my childhood. My father George has a pair of brothers, Max and Howard, who I wish I would have known as an adult as they were both great troublemakers. Maud was the kind, smiling but equally fun counter balance to her husband Howard. I had not seen her for years which I regret but thought often of her. She will rest in peace and enjoy her forever from a nice place - back keeping Howard and his brothers in line. Much love to you Aunt Maud, Mark

“ Aunt Maud was such an imposing presence in my recollections of our early exposure to her. More recently I used to enjoy the breakfasts for which we gathered in Vancouver with Mom and Dad when I was visiting in town. She was quite a character, and I can still hear her and r Uncle Howard going at it over eggs and hash browns. Lori and I saw her just a time or two since we moved back, and I visited her on my 50th birthday. She grew softer as the years passed and her eyesight faded, and remained determined, resourceful, and relentlessly upbeat. She was relatively alert and tracking pretty well when I saw her nearly three years ago, and seemed to know who I was. I feel badly that I’ve barely seen her in the last 14 years. Yet I'm grateful for her, and for all those who were her friends and good caregivers in her later life. In life and in death we belong to God...
