“ Mitchell was my first love. The first kiss I ever had that meant something to me. Mitchell taught me what it was like to feel like a princess and to be respected by a man. He was my best friend for many years growing up. I will always be grateful for the time I was able to spend with him. One thing about him, is that no matter what he was goofy, he didn't care who saw him, he didn't care what was going on around him, he always made the best out of a situation and managed to put a smile on everybody's face. Since the day I met Mitch there hasn't been a single day that I haven't thought about him. Our relationship didn't end in the best way but it was so much fun while it lasted and I wouldn't change a thing. I know he's watching over me, I know he messes with my Spotify, and hangs out with my family from time to time, there's no mistaking his energy. I hope he's in peace right now and forever. I will always have love for you and cherish the moments we had, when they were happening it felt like they'd never end, but they went by so, so fast. If you're reading this, hold the ones you love a little bit tighter and longer because you never know when a good thing will end. -Tasha
