“ *Oh Net, you have no idea how Missed you will be! Far to many beautiful memories to share! Your capacity to love is a part of all of us. Your delight in the smallest success to the most lavish celebration lit your face like a glowing star! You gave unselfishly and generously of yourself to all! You grew into the woman all parents hope for but seldom get as well as a rare and priceless treasure to your family! My love for you will shine in my heart forever!!! Till we meet again my darling...

“ My Nanna Panda,

Your loss brings so much sadness to my heart. Even though it had been a few years since we've been able to get together our special friendship never felt faded.

You were the very first friend I made when I moved to Vancouver. I was in a dark place with a shitty attitude and your compassion was unconditional. And it wasn't long after we met that I realized I was pregnant with Alexis. I worked by your side through almost the entire duration of my pregnancy so we weren't surprised that Alexis instantly knew your voice...ya, I'll definitely miss that and so much more.

You fly high and rest in paradise my dear friend. 🕊️

“ My NaeNae! My heart hurts so bad that your no longer here. I came to town and was excited to see you, just to drive around and cry because of all The places we've been an all the memories that were brought back. Thanks for not only being the best boss I ever had but for being one of my best friends! From all the car rides, dancing, singing, all the way to your wedding, those memories will forever hold a special place in my heart. I will love you and miss you until we meet again. Thanks for being amazing. ❤️❤️

“ Q: What will you miss most about Nanette?

A: Everything, absolutely everything. I can't believe my aunt nanners is gone. This is just way to soon. I'll miss playing table games with her. That was one of her most favorite things to do.
Luckily just days before she's went to the hospital my kids and I were able to play clue and uno with her in the basement and she beat us at clue. I'll forever miss you Nanette I love you so much 😭
