“ Our family just recently learned this tragic news. Our most heartfelt condolences go to his family and all who knew him. Parker was such a fun, funny guy. He brought humor and goodness with him on his many visits to our home. He always seemed to have 2 jobs and school, working hard, yet enjoying every moment. His kindness and beautiful, genuine smile will always remain in our hearts.

“ Parker, it was so much fun having you spend a whole day with my first through fourth grade art students. You taught them how to program, helping students to write simple computer code. You inspired the kids to work hard to achieve their dreams, encouraging them to overcome obstacles. What a talented and perceptive young man. You are very much missed. My heart felt sympathies for all who love you and miss you.

“ Parker was a special person. I've never met anyone as driven to roundly improve himself. He was inspiring to work with and inspiring to hear talk about his efforts to better understand himself and be a better person. He was also funny as hell, a terrific confidant and all around and great company. I, like many, was very interested to know where he'd go and what he'd do. It's so sad to me that he didn't get more time to grow into that person he was striving to be. I'm comforted a bit to know that he was so mindful of his priorities in life. I feel that he did more than most to make the most of his time here. My deepest sympathies to all those that got to know him, especially those closest to him.

“ Parker, I told you when we interviewed that I was thrilled to have you on our team at HP. What I didn't tell you was that I'd hoped you'd join us and stay for perhaps 30 years. I haven't met many young engineers as bright, humble and talented as you, and I looked forward to watching your career unfold. I can confidently say for the whole team that you are sorely missed, and that deepest condolences are felt for your family.
