

Rose S. Parkinson

July 17, 1920 - February 29, 2024

Rose Parkinson died at 103 years of age in Vancouver, Wash., in her home at Prestige Senior Living with her daughters and caring staff at her side. Rose was born in Opportunity, Mont., July 17, 1920 to Anton Stipech and Zora (Suden) Stipech.

She graduated from Anaconda High School and attended Butte Business College. She moved to Seattle and worked for Boeing Aircraft Company as an executive secretary for the Head Engineer on the B-29 Bomber Project. She met Robert Parkinson, a Naval airman in 1943. They were married Jan. 26, 1946, for 49 years.

Rose was an avid gardener and seamstress, also enjoying traveling, learning languages, and painting in many mediums, reading and crossword puzzles. She was also a faithful volunteer at several churches, schools, Camp Fire Girls, March of Dimes, American Cancer Society, and National Psoriasis Foundation.

Rose delighted in the company of family, taking pride in her roles as wife, mother and grandmother.

She is survived by her daughters, Diane Fisker, Portland and Maggie Lind, (Christopher) Vancouver; her grandchildren, Christian Fisker (Lauren Fiala), West Linn, Rudi Suminski (Therese Clark) Hermosa Beach, Calif., Alison Fisker, Sausalito, Calif.; and two great-grandchildren, Anson and Gitte Fisker. She was predeceased by her husband; parents; two brothers; and three sisters.

A funeral will be held at 11 a.m., April 6, 2024, at Proto-Cathedral of St. James, 218 W. 12th, Vancouver, WA. Celebration of Life following at the home of Chris and Maggie Lind.
