“ Roy, as we say good-bye know that your smile, a knowing look, a private joke, a special touch...it's the little things that make your love & memories matter so much now. when we think of your smile, we will be reminded of all the good times we shared. when we talk about the kind of person you were, we will feel prouder than ever & when we hear all the stories people tell about you, it will bring an even richer understanding of how much you meant to everyone lucky enough to know you, as you gain peace, please watch over us all here remaining, you will b missed...
