

Silas Warren Coats, Jr.

October 15, 1926 - March 26, 2020

Silas Warren Coats of Vancouver, WA, went to be with his Lord and Savior on March 26, 2020, after a short illness. His wish to pass away at home was made possible with the help of many special people.

Silas was looking forward to being in his heavenly home where he once again would be with his beloved wife of 67 years Lois, his son Ron and many other loved ones and friends. While our human hearts are broken, and we grieve our loss deeply, our spiritual selves rejoice knowing he is truly home.

Silas loved the Lord, his family, his 39-year career as a Chevron machinist and his work shop. He was always ready to help and serve whenever anyone needed something fixed, created, or built. Many people have expressed their love as he touched lives through his spirit of service.

A favorite quote, "Don't lose that little boy or girl in yourself", which he never forgot. He never lost his spirit of adventure, whether it be riding the wildest rides in theme parks or zip lining at the age of 90 and repeating it at 91. His sense of humor is just one of many traits for which Silas is so fondly remembered. Until recently, he was blessed with good health that allowed an independent lifestyle.

He had a life well lived and those that knew him and loved him were so very blessed to be part of it.

Silas is survived by his son, Don; daughter, Charlene; grandson, Austin; great-granddaughter, Cassie, born March 30, 2020; and his sister, Barbara Hendershot.

As Silas did not wish to have a funeral or memorial service, there will be a graveside service at a later date.
