

Vicente Astan Richards

April 2, 1949 - April 4, 2012

No obituary found for this tribute.

Tribute Wall

LM

“ When I think of Vicente, I remember the book by Charles Dickens- "A Tale of Two Cities"- there were the best of times and the worst of times. He was incredibly generous and loving, yet sometimes hateful and selfish. He was a man of extremes. He was unforgettable. He remains the most amazing person I have ever known.

Lisa Morris - April 15, 2012 at 12:00 AM

LM

“ When I think of Vicente, I remember the book by Charles Dickens- "A Tale of Two Cities"- there were the best of times and the worst of times. He was incredibly generous and loving, yet sometimes hateful and selfish. He was a man of extremes. He was unforgettable. He remains the most amazing person I have ever known.

Lisa Morris - April 15, 2012 at 12:00 AM