“ I thought I would tell a bit more about my dad's life here.

My dad attended the Academy, Shumway middle school and Fort Vancouver H.S.

He was a boxer in middle school and won 14 out of 16 bouts.

He worked at Grams Bakery as a young boy and loved bringing donuts home to his family.

Also in his early years, he was employed at Alcoa and Pepsi Cola-Corwin Distributorship before his long career in beer sales with Blitz Weinhard/Budweiser and retiring with Rainer.

He was an avid bowler with Hazeldell Lanes and was part of a traveling bowling team with the Vancouver Elks.

Other favorite past times included a friendly game of poker, horseshoe's, slow pitch softball where he managed the Blitz Weinhard sponsored ball team.

He was a diehard Seahawk fan and equally enjoyed the Portland Trailblazers where he was a season's ticketholder.

He belonged to the Road Runners Jeep club for many years.

While working at Blitz/Budweiser, Wayne was part of the arm-wrestling team and had many victories with a write up in the Columbian highlighting those achievements.

My dad was many things to many people. To me he was my hero. My protector. My daddy.

I will be with him again one day.
